RE : Testimonial

I would like to hereby express my appreciation for a company that has proven themselves as highly professional and reliable.

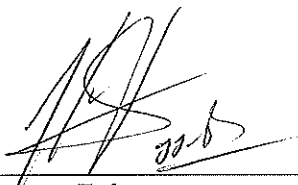

Over the past few years, they have been used to develop and maintain our Wonderware SCADA system, as well as supply instruments used in our processes.

Michael Rautenbach, as founder and owner of the business has become the preferred supplier for these products at First National Battery as he has been able to consistently meet our demands. I have taken the stand that no one other than Michael will touch our SCADA system.

I can confirm that due to his in depth understanding of plant operations and machine capabilities, he was solely responsible for increasing the output and efficiencies of some of our equipment. I have never dealt with a person more capable in systems integration in our industry, and is confident that he has a bright future still ahead of him.

In recent weeks, I have introduced him to a sister company in Kenya, and when we departed from the delegates, he was mentioned by name as an outstanding person, highly professional, and they intend taking the relationship further as well.

AM systems integrators and its owner Michael Rautenbach can be highly recommended in the field of systems integration and plant atomization
